CHARLES-TOWN, JUNE 27.

OUR Advices from London, received Yesterday by the Eagle Packet-Boat, are to the 4th of May.—The Parliament had then near gone through its Business; and was to be prorogued on the 7th.—The Lord-Mayor of London and Alderman Oliver were still confined in the Tower; but the greatest Preparations ever known were making in London, for celebrating their Deliverance on the Prorogation. The former had been brought, by Habeas Corpus, on the 22d of April, before the Court of Common Pleas, when Chief Justice De Grey declared (and the Justices Gould, Blackstone, and Nares, concurred) that the Matter could not come under the Cognizance of that Court, and his Lordship was remanded back to the Tower. On the 30th, Alderman Oliver was also brought by Habeas Corpus to the Court of Exchequer, and remanded to the Tower: But this Homage, paid by the Courts of Law to the Throne of Privilege, alarmed every thinking Man in the Kingdom. All the Wards of the city (except three) and many Parts of the Kingdom, had addressed the two State Prisoners, most of them including Mr. Wilkes also, for their spirited Conduct.——In the House of Commons, the 24th of April, the East-India Recruiting Bill was lost, 55 to 50. The 25th, Serjeant Glynn presented the Petition of Mr. Allen, for Justice against the Soldiers who murdered his Son in St. George's Fields the 10th of May, 1768: This Business was brought on so suddenly, that the Ministry were obliged to send for Members from all Parts, even from the Play-Houses, and the Question was carried, against receiving it, 258 to 38. The 26th, Mr. Sawbridge moved for triennial Parliaments: Upon the Question, there were 105 Nays to 54 Yeas.—In the House of Lords, the 30th of April, the Duke of Richmond moved, to rescind the Vote of last Year, that the Resolution of the House of Commons, in the Case of the Middlesex Election, was final and conclusive: After a long Debate, there appeared for the Motion 35, against it 55. In the same House, on the 2d of May, Lord Chatham moved for an Address to dissolve the present Parliament; but the Question was carried against the Motion, 72 to 23.——Patents were making out to create Sir Edward Hawke, and Sir Jeffery Amherst, Peers of Great-Britain; but none for Sir Francis Bernard: And Colony Affairs were entirely overlooked.

There are very few Articles of any Consequence in all the late English Papers, except Relations of the Proceedings in Parliament, and of the Courts before whom the Lord-Mayor and Mr. Oliver were brought, which are too long to be at this Time inserted in our Paper; and some Accounts of the Affairs in France, of which follow some Abstracts: "Before the Beginning of April, the several Courts of Judicature in the different Parts of that Kingdom had refused to acknowledge the superior Councils lately established, and the Officers thereof had sent their Resignations to the Chancellor. On the 6th of the same Month, a second Bed of Justice was held at Versailles; the King appointed the Members of his great Council in Place of the Parliament of Paris, which was entirely dissolved; all the Peers present adhered to the Protest of the Count d'Uz, the eldest Peer in France; the Court of Aids was suppressed, and the first President banished; the Princes of the Blood gave in their Protest to the Clerk of the Parliament of Paris, and were forbid the Court. The 15th, the Day after the last Bed of Justice, the Parliament of Rouen in Normandy, assembled, and issued an Arret, declaring the new Parliament Intruders, Usurpers of the Effects of other People, Enemies of the State, and Violaters of their Oaths; and strictly forbidding the Acknowledgment or Execution of any of their Arrets. And on the 22d the Mousquetaires carried Letters de Cachet to twelve Members of the great Council, who had resigned, ordering them to return and resume their Functions; some would not go, others returned only to renew their Protests.

The Brigantine Amity, Captain Ash, is arrived at George-Town, in six Weeks from London; and has brought an Account of the Prorogation of Parliament, and the Releasement of the Lord-Mayor and Alderman Oliver.

Last Sunday Mr. John Fraser was married to Miss Polly Stobo, one of the Daughters of James Stobo, Esq; of Will-Town.

Among the Passengers in the late Vessels gone to the Northern Colonies, are, William Middleton, Esq; to make the Tour of the Continent; Mr. Humphry Sommers, John Matthewes, sen. Esq; and Families; Mrs. Lesesne, Wife of Mr. Isaac Lesesne; Mrs. Ash, Mr. William Withers, Mr. Isaac Legaré, Mr. Charles Crouch, Mr. Josiah Smith, jun. and Family.—And among others, gone for Great-Britain, are, William Brisbane, Esq; and Family, William Haggatt, Esq; and Family, Mr. Walter Mansell, Mr. John Walter, Mrs. and Master Simpson, the Wife and Son of James Simpson, Esq.

Last Monday sailed on a Cruize, His Majesty's Sloop Viper, commanded by Capt. Porter.

LONDON, MAY 4.

WE have the greatest pleasure in being able to assure the public, that all the malignant hopes, which the enemies of this country had conceived, or rather, which they had affected to entertain, of Lord Chatham's retiring from business, and deserting the city in the present crisis, are effectually blasted. He never appeared in parliament with greater lustre than on Tuesday last. No man questions the intrepedity of his spirit;—no man denies the wonderful extent of his abilities. The dignity, firmness, and consistency of his conduct, make his character complete. —After giving the warmest support to the Duke of Richmond's motion on Tuesday, he entered largely into the consideration of the melancholly state of the country;—the depraved system of government, which had, in a very few years, reduced us from a most flourishing to a most miserable condition. He went through the whole proceedings of the house of commons in the late business of the printers, and arraigned every part of it in the strongest terms. He warmly defended the magistrates in the conscientious discharge of their duty;—that the house, in committing them to prison without hearing their defence upon the point of privilege, had been guilty of a gross and palpable act of tyranny;—that they had heard the prostituted electors of Shoreham in defence of an agreement to sell a borough by auction, and had refused to hear the Lord Mayor of London, in defence of the laws of Engand;—that their expunging, by mere force, the entry of the recognizance, was the act of a Mob, not of a Parliament; but that their daring to assume a power of stopping all prosecutions by their vote, struck at once at the whole system of the laws;—that it was solely to the measures of government, equally violent and absurd, that Mr. Wilkes owed all his importance;—that the King's ministers, supported by the slavish concurrence of the House of Commons, had at once made him a person of the greatest consequence in the kingdom;—that they in effect had made him an Alderman of London, and representative of the county of Middlesex; and now, it seems, they intend to make him Sheriff, and, in due course, Lord Mayor of London;—that the proceedings of the House of Commons, in regard to this gentleman, made the very name of Parliament ridiculous;—that after repeated resolutions, by which they had declared him amenable to their jurisdiction, they had shamefully given up the point at last, and, in the face of the world, acknowledged him to be their Lord and Master.—That there remained but one possible remedy for the disorders, with which the governmennt of this country was universally infected;—that to save the name and institution of Parliaments from contempt, this House of Commons must be dissolved. This he hoped might restore good government on one side,—good humour and tranquillity on the other;—yet that this was rather a hope in him, than any sanguine expectation. He feared that it might prove only a temporary and partial remedy;—that to resist the enormous influence of the crown, some stronger barriers must be erected in defence of the constitution. That formerly the inconveniencee of shortening the duration of Parliaments has had great weight with him;—but that now it was no longer a question of convenience;—the Summa Rerum is at stake;—your whole constitution is giving way;—and therefore, with the most deliberate and solemn conviction to his understanding, he now declared himself a CONVERT TO TRIENNIAL PARLIAMENTS.

His Lordship concluded with desiring a call of the House for next day, and declared his intention to move an address for the dissolution of the present Parliament.—Accordingly, on Wednesday his Lordship made a motion, "That an humble address be presented to his Majesty, most dutifully and earnestly beseeching his Majesty, that under the late violations of the rights of the electors of Great-Britain, in the election for Middlesex, still unredressed; and in the present conflict which has unhappily arisen between the claims of Peerage of the House of commons on one side, and those of the Magistracy on the other, his Majesty will, in his paternal wisdom, deign to open the way to compose this alarming warfare; and that in order to prevent the said House, and the nation, from being involved in intemperate discussions of undefined powers, which in the extreme may endanger the constitution, and tend to shake the tranquillity of the kingdom, his Majesty will be graciously pleased to recur to the recent sense of his people, by dissolving, after the end of this session, the present Parliament, and calling, with convenient dispatch, a new Parliament.

After a long debate, which lasted till eight o'clock, the House divided; for the motion 23, against it 72. The speakers on the occasion were, Lord Chatham, Lord Chancellor, Dukes of Manchester and Richmond, Lord Sandwich and Lord Mansfield.
